

PETITIONS DEMAND PAYMENT OF BONUS

OVER TWO MILLIONS ASK IMMEDIATE ACT

Colorful Ceremony Seen
As War Veterans Present Petitions to Congress

OPPONENTS ACTIVE

Reasons for Payment Are Expressed by Patman

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Petitions demanding cash payment of the remainder of the soldier's bonus bearing names of 2,240,230 veterans and citizens were presented to leaders of Congress in a colorful ceremony at the capital today.

With a band playing stirring tunes of World War days and bugles emitting shrill blasts, spokesmen for the veterans unloaded the petitions from a van and carefully placed them on the capital steps.

A bill for the payment of the bonus prepared by Senator Patman, Democrat of Texas would pay off the certificates in full—that is to pay their holders now the amount which otherwise would come to them on death or in 1945.

ARGUMENTS MADE
In support of the bill its proponents argue:

That 750,000 veterans holding certificates are now unemployed and need money badly.

That it would put $2,000,000,000 of additional money into circulation—not by paying it into banks, railroads or in the hands of the wealthy.

That issuance of this additional currency would strengthen commodity prices, thus aiding the commodity producer, quick trade and assist in restoration of prosperity.

That the government, by paying the certificates now, would save administrative expense from the present to 1945.

That the veteran would be saved the payment of compound interest at 4-1/2 percent which he now pays the government on money he has borrowed on his certificates.

This interest is to be paid when the certificate matures in 1945.

OPPONENTS BUSY
Opponents of the measure attack the plan of issuing additional currency as being inflation and dangerous measure of inflation.

Then they point to what already has been done for the veterans and cite these claims among others:

The government is now paying out $1,000,000,000 a year for the benefit of veterans.

It has paid $1,374,004,790 in insurance.

It has spent $644,960,808 for education of the veterans.

It has expended $420,011,705 giving veterans medical and hospital care.

That 683,110 World War veterans are now drawing monthly checks for total or partial disability from the government.

That 524,431 veterans have been treated in government hospitals since the war.

That the government operates 106 hospitals and homes for veterans, with 35,055 being cared for in hospitals and 19,264 in homes in 1931.

That any veteran can have free hospital treatment and free medical care any time at government expense.

That the government although it pays off the certificates now, will later be called upon to vote pension at tremendous cost.

COLUMBUS VETS
SEEKING BONUS
COLUMBUS, O., April 8.—Opposing the stand taken by Federal Judge Benson W. Hough, who was a major general in their outfit, members of the Columbus chapter of Rainbow Division Veterans today had voted for immediate payment of the bonus.

Before the vote was taken Judge Hough declared himself opposed to immediate payment and urged against a vote calling for settlement now.

COLUMBUS, O., April 8.—Albert D. Skinner of New Holland Samuel Miller of Basil, and James Miller of Jeffersonville were discharged as bankrupts in federal court today by Judge Benson W. Hough.

Airman's Speech Feared Impaired

Frank Hawks' Facial
Muscles and Nerves Ser-

FED THROUGH TUBE

Telegrams of Sympathy
Fill Flyer's Room

WORCESTER, Mass., April 8.—America's famous speed king of the air, Captain Frank M. Hawks today was threatened with facial paralysis as a result of the injuries he received when his "mystery plane" crashed as he tried to take off for New York.

Although Dr. George A. McIver, medical superintendent of Worcester city hospital said the aviator's condition was "satisfactory," there was danger the nerves and muscles of his face were so seriously injured as to threaten his power of speech.

FACE IS FRACTURED
Suffering from a fracture of the lower jaw and nose, the loss of several teeth and severe laceration of the face Hawks was forced to remain mute today.

Physicians resorted to feeding him through a tube and were prepared to continue this for several days.

Messages of sympathy were received in large volume by Hawks today. K. C. Lambert of St. Louis was among those who telephoned inquiries about Hawks' condition.

Telegrams from all parts of the country expressing regret at the accident came in large quantities.

Mrs. Frank Hawks, wife of the flyer, was enroute here today, having left Fort Worth, Texas, immediately after learning of the crash.

By telephone she was assured by doctors that her husband's condition was not considered to give cause for alarm.

PLANE WRECKED
The plane was wrecked when Hawks attempted to take off from the muddy flying field. He roared down the runway to make a fast hop-off when wheel of the aircraft struck a rocky ledge.

After lurching on its side a moment, the machine turned a complete somersault.

Hawks was found unconscious beneath the wreckage. He escaped being burned to death, field attendants believed, because he had with rare presence of mind shut off the motor ignition, preventing an almost certain blaze.

Kansas still remained the only state in the dry column, but North Carolina was kept in the wet list by margin of only 11 votes.

The total vote registered was 4,069,499.

Of these, 2,963,386 were for repeal of 1919 for retention of the prohibition law.

Honor Twins

One honor student in a family is unusual, but when there are two—well, that's something to shout about. To the Greenough family of Proffit, Va., goes that distinction for Amherst College has honored the Greenough boys, Tom (top) and Bob, with election to Phi Beta Kappa. Bob is also president of the Students' Council, the highest honor a student can win. Both youths are also active athletes, Bob being quarterback on the varsity eleven and Tom starting at soccer.

Legislature Explained

Six local persons attended the Probation Officers' meeting held in the Y. W. C. A. building in Columbus Thursday at which time Charles Sherwood, secretary of the Ohio Institute of Mental Hygiene, led an interesting discussion on the recent four enactments of the legislature which pertain to the levying of taxes for poor relief.

Judge E. A. Brown, vice-president of the Ohio Probate Judges' Association, L. M. Brown, probation officer, E. L. Daley, supervisor of Circleville's city grade schools, D. L. Buchanan, county superintendent of schools, Harry Kraft, city truant officer, and Ferd Dumm, county truant officer, represented Pickaway-co at the meeting.

40 PERSONS ATTEND
About 40 persons were present at the gathering. These attended from the district which comprises Pickaway, Franklin, Fairfield, Ross, Madison and Fayette counties. Judge E. V. Mahaffey of the court of domestic relations of Franklin, co, presided at the meeting for a time, but later Judge E. A. Brown took over the reins of the discussion.

The meeting was called for the expressed purpose of explaining to persons in charge of poor relief in the counties the plan and organization as outlined in the recent four acts as passed by the Ohio General Assembly.

Mr. Sherwood in leading the discussion, explained Governor George White's commission of five members who will have charge or take care of the bonded indebtedness of some 25 million dollars which is expected to be raised in taxes through these four measures.

It was explained that in order to get poor relief for any large sum application must be made to city council who will in turn advise with the county commissioners.

One of the bills places an excise tax against public utilities and is Continued on Page Two.

RACE MIXTURE SEEN ON JURY

Six Are Americans, Six Mixture of Castes; Testimony Begins Monday.

HONOLULU, April 8.—East and west today stood merged. At this cross road of the Pacific—a veritable "human melting pot"—was achieved this remarkable amalgamation in a jury that will judge the "honor slaying" trial of four Americans.

With the indolent beauty of the tropics as a background, selection of the jury set the stage for the opening Monday of a great human drama in which Grate Hubbard Fortescue, American society matron, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, U. S. N. and two enlisted men of the United States navy will be tried for second degree murder.

English Pastor and Accuser

Above are the principle actors in the sensational case that has aroused feverish interest in England. The Rev. Harold Francis Davidson, 60-year-old rector of Stiffkey, outside London, is accused by Barbara Harris (left), 18-year-old dancer, of attempting to entice her into immoral relations. The pastor vigorously denied the charges and appealed to the public to reserve judgment until he had an opportunity to defend himself. His appeal was made from the pulpit of his church.

Deputy Chief of Police Frank E. Brex announced this morning that this action had been decided upon after he had consulted with Colonel H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of state police, who is in charge of the hunt for the baby.

Johnson is Norwegian by nationality and probably will be deported to that country unless Colonel Lindbergh intercedes in his behalf.

Education Now Great Problem Speaker Avers

Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt
Says Good Government
Depends on Education

OTHERS TO TALK

Teachers Are Defended by Wife of Governor

COLUMBUS, O., April 8.—Good government in a democracy is contingent upon education as "the open door to all advancement," Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the New York governor and presidential candidate, declared here today.

Speaking before hundreds of school teachers attending the 12th annual Ohio Educational conference at Ohio State University, Mrs. Roosevelt asserted that "a heavier burden, a greater problem is laid on education than ever before, if we regard as a necessary result to be attained through education the making of better citizens."

CONFERENCE UNDERWAY
The conference before which Mrs. Roosevelt spoke opened here yesterday evening. Meetings of 35 sections, each dealing with a special phase of education, were scheduled on today's program. Mrs. Roosevelt addressed the Parent-Teacher Association section.

Other prominent speakers today include Zone Gale, noted novelist and Pulitzer prize-winner; Sir Wilmot Lewis, Washington correspondent of the London Times and Dear Charles H. Judd of the University of Chicago.

Mrs. Roosevelt declared that bad government is the result of bad education. Children she meets, she said, have not had the right kind of training in history and civics.

Government must be taught in a way that it will "not be a distant thing, some one else's business."

DEFENDS TEACHERS
Although most of her address contained a plea and a warning for teachers, Mrs. Roosevelt defended teachers against critics who argue that educators lead easy lives and therefore should receive less pay.

The successful teacher, Mrs. Roosevelt said, must "carry the children in her care constantly on her mind and heart; it is not only academic work, it is social and requires patience and self-discipline and often courage of a high order."

At the opening of the conference last night, George W. Rightmire, president of Ohio State, declared there can be no moratorium on education.

"In a growingly complex world," he said, "the need for skills, mental training, social sensitiveness and civic enthusiasm is most emphatic."

Ruth Bryan Owen, congresswoman from Florida and daughter of William Jennings Bryan, expressed faith in the youth of the nation and urged formal recognition of youth in government.

CONGRESS LAUDED IN ADDRESS TODAY

COLUMBUS, O., April 8.—More sympathy for Congress had been demanded today by Congresswoman Ruth Bryan Owen of Florida in an address before several thousand teachers at the annual state education conference.

The daughter of William Jennings Bryan assured her listeners that Congressmen do a great deal of work.

"There should be some way to acquaint the public with the fact that they are able to see from the gallery of Congress only a small fraction of the actual work which the members accomplish in their individual offices and in committees," she asserted.

D. Curtis Reed, attorney for the Buckeye Stages, gave formal consent during bankruptcy hearing in federal court today and Judge Hough ordered the dismissal.

RELIEF GROUP TO MEET WITH WHITE
COLUMBUS, O., April 8.—Its membership completed, the state relief commission appointed by Governor George White was to hold its first meeting today.

Making way for a test suit in the state supreme court to test whether counties may bond for relief in anticipation of the collection of the increased utilities tax, the commission was expected to act favorably upon Hamilton county's request to sell $1,000,000 worth of such bonds.

Other applications may be held up pending the outcome of the suit. Fred A. Miller, president of the Golden Shoe Co. here, and Duriey Blossom, former Cleveland city welfare director, were appointed to the commission yesterday, joining Assistant General Frank D. Henderson, Highway Director O. W. McVey and Finance Director Howard L. Brown, who had been previously named.

Birds Beat Yank Outfit By 5 to 4

COLUMBUS, O., April 8.—With victories over the New York Yankees and the Cincinnati Reds within the last two days, the Columbus Red Birds were rarin' today to welcome back a home-town boy who made good with the Rochester International Leaguers.

Billy Southworth brings his minor league champions to Columbus for a three-game series. The series was scheduled to get under way this afternoon.

The Red Birds took a 5 to 4 victory over the New York Yankees yesterday. The Yanks claimed they handed the game to the Birds in order to catch a train for New York, where they arrived today.

GOMEZ IS GOAT
With the score tied in the ninth inning and the bases full, Lefty Gomez, New York Southpaw, walked a batter deliberately, it appeared, and then ran for his suitcase.

Some say, however, that Lefty knew he was in for a licking and that the rush for the train was a good excuse.

At any rate, the defeat was the eighth for the Yankees on their exhibition road trip. They pulled in 15 victories.

First Baseman Pat Crawford of the Red Birds, stole the home run thunder of Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig in the game yesterday. In hero fashion, Crawford went to bat in the ninth, and with the Yanks leading 4 to 2, smashed the ball over the right field fence. The homer started a rally which ended with Gomez running for his suitcase.

Paul Dean, brother of "Dizzy" Dean, pitched the first seven innings. He had a simple method of keeping Ruth from hitting a home run. He kept the ball out of the Babe's reach. Just once he pitched in close enough for Ruth to hit a double.

After the series with the Rochester nine, the Red Birds take on the 1932 model of the Ohio State University diamonders Monday. The Buckeye nine, incidentally, is expected to be composed mainly of veterans polished up. A few new parts have been added, however, to replace cogs while making the graduation run.

Lowell Wrigley of Lima, and Merton Alvord of Montville, will probably share the hurling work for the Ohio State team in the Red Bird contest.

PHILS BEAT MACKS

PHILADELPHIA, April 8.—The city championship crown was perched firmly atop the collective head of the amazing Phillies today while a worshipful populace paid tribute to Leslie C. Mallon, diminutive Texan keystone guardian who stole the show while the Phils ripped through the Athletics yesterday.

The final score was 3 to 2. Mallon quenched the fire of fireball Lefty Grove with a home run and drove in each of the other two Phillies' tallies with two singles, one off the offerings of Earnshaw and the other off Walberg.

Both teams meet again tomorrow in exhibition game and the word has been passed down the line of the dethroned Athletics—"Get that fellow Mallon."

REDS LOSE AGAIN

CINCINNATI, O., April 8.—The Cincinnati Reds today were in a batting slump that has Manager Dan Howley worried.

Their fielding work falling off as their batting prowess declined, the Reds dropped an 8 to 2 game to the Indianapolis American association team here yesterday.

The Indians, playing a brilliant game in the field, looked like major leaguers, and the Reds, with four errors, resembled minor leaguers—or worse.

St. Johnson, discouraged by poor backing, weakened in the eighth inning, permitting four runs. The Reds collected only four hits for him.

It was the second loss in two days to a minor league team, the Columbus Red Birds having defeated them the day before. Red Lucas was to try his luck against the Indians today.

expected to yield approximately 10 million dollars yearly. Fifteen hundredths of one per centum of the capital stock of all public utilities in the state must be paid into this fund which has been designated as "the county poor relief excise fund." The deadline on this act is March 1, 1933. The fund shall be allocated to all counties in the state in the following proportions:

1.—The population in the county as to the population in the state.

2.—The total tax duplicate in the county as to the total tax duplicate in the state.

3.—The total valuation of all public utilities properties in the county as to the total of the same in the state.

Through this method each county will receive its just share, according to terms of the act.

It was further explained at the meeting that if a city wishes to do so, it may take its share of the motor vehicle, license and gas, line tax fund and use for poor relief.

BOARDS GIVEN POWER
In cases where children cannot attend school because of lack of food, clothing and the like, the boards of education might appropriate sums to take care of such cases. Also if the board of county commissioners run short of money to operate schools and do not have the necessary amounts to carry on the educational program in the county, the board may obtain money from the state emergency fund.

The state relief commission of five members is to exist until March 1, 1933.

U. S. IS PLANNING EXAMS FOR POSTS

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced open competitive examinations as follows:

Assistant gardener, $1,260 a year, or $124 a day when actually employed. Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks of the National Capital, Washington, D. C. Closing date April 25, 1932.

Senior plasterer, $1,850 a year, plasterer, $1,680 a year, departmental service, Washington, D. C. Closing date May 3, 1932.

All states except Delaware, Iowa, Maine, Maryland, New Hampshire, Vermont, Virginia, and the District of Columbia have received less than their share of appointments in the apportioned departmental service at Washington, D. C.

Full information may be obtained from Leslie L. Pontius, Secretary of the United States Civil Service Board of Examiners, at the post office in this city.

The Interstate Commerce Commission ruling that two can occupy one Pullman berth for the price of one is probably based on the constitutional principle of double jeopardy.

One of the most important gifts ever made to the Circleville library is the relief map of the earth, formerly on the site of Circleville, made and presented by Dr. Howard Jones of N. Court-st.

The original treatment, reproducing the walls, meat and mounds, according to scale, against an outline map of Circleville of today, is a splendid interpretation.

The other gifts of value to the local history department are the maps, the work of D. Adrian Yates, N. Scioto-st. One shows the march of Lord Dunmore's army from Virginia to the Pickaway Plains, in 1774, the other, the military camps and Indian towns on the Pickaway Plains at that time.

The Librarian appreciates the support and consideration rendered from the citizens of Circleville in making possible the progress and accomplishments recorded here.

At the Circleville Theatres

AT THE CLIFTONA

When is a Star not a Star? When there are several in the same picture and that picture is not a revue, that is the answer.

This unprecedented event occurs in Pathe's "Beyond Victory," which will be shown at the Cliftona Theatre tomorrow. Several screen stars and prominent players find themselves in the position of taking part in only about a quarter of this Pathe special directed by John Robertson.

Any danger of discord and professional rivalry among members of such an outstanding cast is said to have been eliminated by the importance of each characterization, however brief, and the magnitude of this tremendous production in its entirety.

"Beyond Victory" tells four distinct dramatic stories—a veritable cross section of life—within itself, having as their only link a sequence of great power.

The imposing cast is made up of Bill Boyd, Fred Scott, Marion Shilling, Lew Cody, James Gleason, Russell Gleason, Zasu Pitts, Lissi Arna, Theodore Von Eltz, Mary Carr, Wade Boteler and other well known players.

INSURANCE MEN PLAN TO GATHER

Nearly 800 agents from Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee will attend the eleventh annual convention of the State Automobile Mutual Insurance Company in Columbus, Ohio, on April 8th and 9th.

Robert Pein who first organized the company and has built it to its present strength and financial standing, will personally preside at all sessions of the convention which are to be held at the Neil House and at the company's home office, East Broad Street and Washington Avenue.

The convention will open at 9 o'clock Friday morning with a reception to agents and attorneys by officials of the company. The morning session will terminate with a noonday luncheon at the Neil House.

The annual banquet and ball will be held in the Grand Ball Room of the Neil House, Friday evening.

SEEKS TO STRIKE

TARIFF FROM BILL

WASHINGTON, April 8.—A new move to strike all tariff duties from the new tax bill was made in the Senate today when Senator Tydings, Democrat of Maryland, sponsored a resolution directing the Senate finance committee to report a tariffless measure.

If the Senate adopts the resolution it would eliminate the cent a gallon tax on imported gasoline and oil and the two dollars a ton tax on imported coal as adopted by the House.

Tydings said the inclusion of tariff rates in the new revenue bill would mean "many months of internal debate and delay of its final passage." Each month of delay, he added, would cost the government $90,000,000 in lost revenue.

"The buyer of a shirt provides employment for 50 persons." That accounts for the pins.

Tydings said the inclusion of tariff rates in the new revenue bill would mean "many months of internal debate and delay of its final passage." Each month of delay, he added, would cost the government $90,000,000 in lost revenue.

"The buyer of a shirt provides employment for 50 persons." That accounts for the pins.

SEEKS TO STRIKE

TARIFF FROM BILL

WASHINGTON, April 8.—A new move to strike all tariff duties from the new tax bill was made in the Senate today when Senator Tydings, Democrat of Maryland, sponsored a resolution directing the Senate finance committee to report a tariffless measure.

AT THE GRAND

"Play Girl," the Warner Bros. and Vitaphone picture featuring Loretta Young, Winnie Lightner, Norman Foster and Guy Kibbee, now at the Grand Theatre, is a love story of great dramatic power. Its emotional heights and depths are revealed against a background of rushing crowds in a big department store, which served as setting for many sequences.

The uproarious comedy which lightens its sequences issues from store-clerks, big and little bosses, floorwalkers, irate lady customers, detectives and all the hodgepodge of a huge sales emporium. Loretta plays the part of an ambitious clerk who intends to make fortune and fame by her own efforts, unaided by anyone. She does not intend to take the risks of marriage, or the responsibilities of motherhood. How she uses her feminine prerogative of changing her mind when the right youth comes along, their hopes and intimacies, constitute the story.

Winnie Lightner, Guy Kibbee, Norman Foster and many other screen favorites are in the large cast, including James Ellison, Edward Van Sloan, Dorothy Burgess, Polly Walters, Mae Madison, Noel Madison and Flora Finch. Ray Enright directed.

BREAD AND CEREAL ARE BASE FOR CHEAPEST BALANCED DIET

"Some like it hot, some like it cold, some like it in the pot nine days old." Mother Goose was talking about pease porridge, but the rhyme may go for oatmeal porridge this time, if not taken too literally. The point is that however you take your cereals, whether as porridge, oatmeal gruel, hominy gruffs, or cornmeal mush, or whether as bread, muffins, or toast, add milk and you have the basis of a low-cost balanced diet. To keep your food costs down to the lowest limit, build your diet on this basis, says the Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The other necessary kinds of food—vegetables, fruits, meats—can be used in smaller quantity if you start with plenty of the grain foods and milk. The low-cost diet begins with bread and cereals because these are cheap forms of energy-giving or fuel foods (which are necessary to keep the body warm and give it power to work) and because they also contain body-building substances. These values come chiefly from the starch and protein contained in the grains and grain products. Whole wheat, brown rice and whole-grain cornmeal contain some minerals and vitamins besides, because they contain parts of the grain usually lost in milling, and it is these parts, chiefly, which contain the minerals and vitamins.

In all but the most exceptional circumstances, and almost everywhere, the grain crops furnish the cheapest energy-giving food, and bread or bread stuffs are the largest single item in the low-cost food supply. For all their importance, however, neither the "staff of life" nor any other grain product will by itself sustain. And although milk—which is also cheap because it furnishes several other kinds of food in one—is the best single supplement to the grain foods even this combination must not be considered complete, for it lacks certain vitamins and minerals which only vegetables and fruits can be depended upon to supply.

People who live on a diet too largely composed of grain foods have the so-called "deficiency" diseases—like pellagra in this country, in sections where they eat little else except corn bread, fat meat, and molasses; and like beriberi in oriental countries where polished rice is the principal food. The addition of milk or eggs or lean meat or fish, or tomatoes will prevent pellagra, and brown rice substitutes for polished rice will prevent beriberi. This is true because these foods supply the particular substances needed to prevent these diseases. But a balanced diet requires also vegetables or fruit.

The housewife has her difficulties in meal planning, of course when she must depend so largely on bread and cereals. How shall the mother of a family of five serve 30 pounds of breadstuffs and cereals in a week, in a sufficient variety of ways to make the meals appetizing? It taxes the imagination, perhaps, but here are some suggestions.

Whole wheat, rice, bread crumbs or noodles are among the important "makers" of soups or chowders which is very nutritious and very good. Then there are combinations of beef and whole wheat; scalloped liver and whole wheat; liver and rice; whole wheat, fish and tomato; whole wheat and pork brown, plain or served with tomato sauce, or with cheese, or with both; Spanish or Mexican rice, or a pilau of rice or whole wheat; green peppers stuffed with rice; macaroni or spaghetti with chopped cooked ham, with cheese, or with tomatoes and cheese; noodles or dumplings with meat—any of these makes a substantial main dish for dinner. Whole wheat, rice, noodles, macaroni, or spaghetti are all good "meat extenders"—that is, they help out if you haven't enough meat for a whole meal, and they are useful with left-overs.

For lunch or supper, fried mush or oatmeal cookies fill a useful place, and for dessert at either meal there are such possibilities as suet pudding, bread pudding (eggs are cheap now), and apple dumplings or other fruit dumplings when fruit is cheap—as apples are.

Then, of course, there are the breakfast cereals, and the breads for every meal. Home made biscuits, wheat cakes, and muffins will consume a considerable portion of the week's allowance of wheat flour; corn cakes, corn pone, corn dodgers, scones, bread, Indian pudding and brown bread are made from corn meal. And now when eggs are cheap, French toast is another possibility.

The grain foods are cheapest, of course, when bought in bulk rather than in package. Whole grain wheat, and also cracked or ground wheat can be bought at feed stores. Whole grain wheat should be sorted and washed carefully, and soaked overnight (1-2 cups of water to each cup of wheat) before cooking. It can be cooked over direct heat or in a double boiler.

The Bureau of Home Economics will furnish, on request, a number of whole wheat recipes, and other low-cost recipes for using the cereal foods in appetizing combinations.

What is the PRICE OF BEAUTY?

Without health there can be little natural beauty. The wise woman knows that the condition of her body shows itself on her face, her complexion, and in her eyes.

She takes care to avoid constipation. This treacherous ailment frequently causes headaches, sallow skin, pimples, premature aging.

Try the pleasant "cereal way" to protect yourself from constipation. Science has proved that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron, which helps build up the blood.

The "bulk" in this delicious cereal is much like that of lettuce. How much safer than abusing your system with pills and drugs—so often habit-forming!

Two tablespoons daily will correct most types of constipation. ALL-BRAN is not habit-forming. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

"The GAY BANDIT of the BORDER" by TOM GILL

Copyright 1931 by International Magazine Co., Inc. — Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

SYNOPSIS

Bob Harkness, one of the most respected ranchers on the Mexican border, is "El Coyote," the masked bandit who has avenged the wrongs inflicted upon the peons by Paco Morales. Ted Radcliffe, the son of Bob's dead friend, Ann Reed, an entertainer at a disreputable resort, and Dr. Price are the only ones who know "El Coyote's" identity. Morales would pay well for this information, and not knowing that Ann loves "El Coyote" and is his spy, asks her to secure it. He also employs her to entangle Ted and kill his beautiful niece, Adela's love for the American. Ann goes to warn Bob and brings Ted the news that a large tract of land controlled by Morales rightfully belongs to him. Back in her room, Ann tells Ted of Morales' proposed trap.

CHAPTER XLIII

A light knock sounded on the door. He heard her little start of surprise, and saw her bare arm and shoulder as she pulled the tapestry aside. "Queen es?" she called.

For answer the door swung slowly open. With a choked cry Ted started to his feet. There at the doorway stood Morales, his face twisted in an exultant smile, and at his elbow was Adela. For a moment their eyes took in the picture, the man standing by the chair, and behind him, clutching the tapestry, that half-clothed figure of the girl that all the border knew as Ann Reed.

There at the doorway stood Morales, his face twisted in an exultant smile.

Very deliberately Morales spoke. "A thousand pardons. I had hoped to have my niece meet the charming singer. It would seem she is—pleasantly occupied."

As the door swung closed, Ted leaped forward, but the girl flung her arms about him.

"Not now," she pleaded, while her hands held him back. "You mustn't give her a chance to say something she can't recall. Give her time to think. Wait until you're calm. Then go to her."

In Ted's brain was still the memory of Adela's eyes, and for a moment his hands twisted with blind rage. Roughly he unwound the girl's arms, and left the room.

Downstairs he ran through the long patio, then out into the night. Adela was nowhere. He searched inside the gaming hall, passed down the line of tables, then hurried into the patio again.

Mendoza stood looking down the road.

"The señor seeks someone?"

"Paco Morales."

—Señor Morales and his lovely niece—

Mendoza looked up at the big, grim-faced man and added in a poor little lady—weeping in such an exquisite night of spring."

As Ted swept down the long aisle between the tables Bob looked up. Something in the man's quick tread, the gleam in his eyes, the set of his jaw, told him that he had before him a man who was not to be trifled with. And his eyes were so deadly. And his voice as he told Bob what had happened upstairs, held a pent-up fury. Bob sat for a long moment in thought. At last he said: "I'm inclined to agree with Price that the old Spaniard is just a little mad. How he must have hurt Adela!"

"I can't forget her eyes—they weren't accusing—they were only terribly sad," Ted raised a clenched hand and the square line of his jaw set. "Morales wants open war—now, by God, he has it."

"Softly, old son."

"Softly," I've walked softly long enough. To hell with more sidestepping. Ted burst out. "I'm fed up with smiles and words. Oh, it's all clear enough! He wants me out of this country and out of Adela's heart. And if he has to—he'll kill!"

Bob looked at him. "I could do a little killing myself tonight."

Bob rose. "I think, old fellow, we'd better be going. Jito and his gang are out in the bar—we don't want any trouble."

Once again Ted's jaw set. "Ever since I came here I've been avoiding trouble with Morales and his vaqueros. Tonight it's their turn to step aside."

After a moment's hesitation Bob shrugged and dropped back into his chair. They sat in silence, their unseeing eyes fixed before them, while about them the music swayed and dancers passed and repassed, looking down curiously on the two grim-faced men.

Then, as Bob turned to break the black silence, a water hurled to their table and landed over Ted's shoulder.

"Señor, Jito gives you his message from the bar. He hopes you will join him in a drink when you are no longer engaged upstairs."

The insolence of that challenge stung Ted to instant action. He jumped to his feet, upsetting the little table. His eyes became narrow, bloodshot slits, but his voice was calm. "Come," he said to Bob. "I am accepting Jito's invitation—and God help one of us tonight."

Just outside the door that led into the long bar of Mendoza's, the two men stopped. All bedlam had broken loose in there, and above the crash of shouts rose the crash of splintered wood, then the silvery shattering of glasses. The thud of a heavy body followed, and the roar of voices redoubled. Bob loosened the top button of his shirt. Then he opened the door.

In sharp contrast to the darkened patio, the white lights of the mirrored barroom for a moment dazzled their eyes. Lined up before the bar, twenty or more sombreroed Mexican vaqueros stood, quirts hanging loose at their belts, roweled spurs clinking into the wooden floor. A table toward the lower end of the bar had overturned, and bottles and glasses were scattered about it, but it was toward the upper end that the eyes of the vaqueros led. The crowd had drawn back to the wall, leaving a space of

Race to Courageous

PERHAPS because of modern methods of communication and travel, modern man seems more prone to exaggerate misfortune and happiness alike. No one is so happy or wretched as he leads other to believe. And this latter applies to communities as well as individuals.

Everybody seems to be waiting for something to happen, and continues to convey to neighbors and business associates how very bad business condition are and the great amount of unemployment in existence; all of which is mostly rumor or propaganda and much of which is not true.

Either as business men or individuals, no one will ever do or accomplish anything without courage. Courage is the greatest quality of the human mind. This is the day of the courageous man. Instead of circulating misfortune, let all seek out every new thing, no matter how small or large, with a determination to go forward. This is a nation of imitators, at least to the extent of being impressed with the opinions and acts of others.

There is unemployment and some factories are not operating, but neither is due to poor business conditions. Consolidation and centralization in industry has closed some factories and abolished some jobs and modern machinery dispenses with some man-power, but production is being maintained. Another cause that has thrown upon the labor market thousands of men and women is workmen's compensation which compels employers, for their own protection, to reject workers who cannot meet physical and age requirements.

Inadequate Streets

RELIEF for traffic congestion continues to receive major attention, not only in the United States but throughout the civilized and motorized world. In London, Paris, Berlin and all large cities, both here and abroad, all agree something must be done and soon.

Every community is experimenting with prescribed remedies, no two of which seem exactly alike and none of which has yet proved itself the panacea the world is seeking.

The most general remedy lies in the creation of express highways, over which vehicles can be led from congested areas at relatively high rates of speed. Abolition of parking increases the space for moving traffic and is expediting travel in some cities.

There would be no traffic problem if there were unlimited money for widening highways and eliminating crossings at grade, but there is not a city, state or nation with revenue that even approximates its financial needs.

From Paris comes a plan that should prove less expensive than moving or chopping off buildings to widen thoroughfares. The plan is to do away with first floors of buildings bordering busy streets, and replacing the masonry with supporting pillars between which vehicles might pass freely and still leave space for parking. Large cities are coming to this or elevated and subway highways.

Slowly Getting There

PEACEFUL, law-abiding, self-controlled folk are not a product of definitions of right and breeding, of the process of evolution. The criminal class of today is greatly superior in morality and intellect to the highest type men of the stone age, and it is not unreasonable to suppose that another hundred thousand years will find the lowest class of that future age superior in all ways to the highest type of this.

Society appears to have done its full duty in the matter of reforming mankind. Through a thousand agencies it has defined right and wrong. It can do no more.

A man of the highest type the race has developed will not strike his child in the face with a club nor will he lie in wait and shoot another man who carries a large sum of money.

He may be angry at his child and he may covet money, but he will not beat the one or steal the other. The thing that restrains him is not the knowledge that these things are wrong, but the fact that he is a gentleman. That is, a gentleman instead of a brute.

It is not a exercise of will that he refrains from doing these evils, he has outgrown the urge to do them.

A man of a lower type, who does these things is not ignorant of the fact that he is doing wrong. He does wrong deliberately and in many cases without compunction. He follows the urge of his brute instincts.

China is a land of contention. If it isn't a river it is a neighbor getting out of the wrong side of the bed.

The Daily Horoscope

Friday, April 8, 1932

The backward swing of the financial tide ends today. From now on the word prosperity should take on a more vital meaning in the United States. The horn of plenty starts to tip today and the long-awaited good times will soon take actual form.

The outstanding indication today is this new emphasis upon expansion and progress. It is the turning of the tide. The next few months should bring a marked forward move in industry and finance.

The early morning marks a splendid time for those who have long been planning to buy a new home, a new car, or even a diamond ring. The Eastern standard time is the time to make a commitment.

Public affairs should benefit from the new tide this morning. Bond sales should pick up and real estate should show beneficial results.

At 10:47 a. m. the time when the cosmic indicators of prosperity strikes the most encouraging note of the year. People who believe in the future of this country should get up on a day like this and do all they can to speed up the wheels of commerce.

Slightly favorable for starting important business at 2:45 p. m. Indications all favorable until 3:00 p. m. when care is needed to avoid friction and strife and minor injuries. 8:05 p. m. is somewhat favorable.

MUSSOLINI ANTI-COED

ROME.—Mussolini has no sympathy with the coed idea. He has just issued strict orders to all the federal directors of Fascist juvenile sports organizations that the sexes are to be kept absolutely apart, not only in the campus, but when giving displays and taking part in competitions.

That new radio devices which can start, steer and stop a warship seems to be just the thing the disarmament conference has been looking for.

Children born this day have long heads. They are far-sighted, having the far into the future in mind. They have plenty of self-reliance and feel they need not be in a hurry. They do not like to be rushed, yet they need such environment as would cause them to be more spontaneous and happy to a degree.

Their mothers and the men they marry will have to be patient. They will have to be patient with their children, and the children will have to be patient with their mothers and the men they marry.

Public affairs should benefit from the new tide this morning. Bond sales should pick up and real estate should show beneficial results.

Help Your Child Get Rid of "Examination Panic"

Fear of Failure in Studies Is Often Due to Causes That Can Be Overcome by Careful Attention to Health Habits, and Removal of Functional Defects

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

As the season approaches for promotion examinations in the schools many cases of "examination panic" appear among the older pupils. This state of mind is characterized by the child's inability to concentrate, a feeling of loss of morale, a feeling of fear and a despair of the power to make good in the coming tests.

In certain cases this examination fear is well founded. A student who has neglected his studies for months can hardly hope that a few weeks of "ramming" will enable him to pass a brilliant examination. But there are many different workers and many different causes. In some cases the child's physical condition is such that his body is unable to meet the demands of the examination. So profound is their despair that they have lost the initiative to prepare for the examination.

The average adolescent is careless regarding personal hygiene. The rules of health mean little to him, and he often looks with disdain at the men in training for athletics. Nevertheless, loss of adequate sleep, haphazard meals, too much coffee, too many cigarettes and sometimes indulgence in alcoholic beverages are sure to injure the health, and be a source of examination fear.

A neglected head cold or obstructed nasal passages may account for mental dullness. We all recognize the stupidity of the child with colds, but we are apt to ignore similar people in our schools and colleges. Reassurance and encouragement by a physician who has gained the confidence of a student will do wonders in helping him to carry on. Mary, a loud will be able to make the grade if some one believes in and respects assures him that he is fully able to work.

Let us give thought to the matters. By so doing we will relieve a lot of mental distress.

PHILA. LABORATORY CERTIFIES NEW SHREDDED BISCUIT

Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuits Pronounced Very Rich in Food Value

One of the reasons for the popularity of the new Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuits is the food value of this tasty ready-to-eat cereal. The improved Kellogg's Biscuit is "pressure-cooked" by a special process that retains all the flavor and nutrients and the food elements of the whole wheat. As a result, the Medical Arts Laboratory of Philadelphia, after careful analysis, certifies every package for food value.

The new Kellogg's Biscuit also offers a new and more convenient way of eating cereal. The just-baked, golden-brown Biscuit is sold in the package instead of the usual cereal.

And every Biscuit is treated a golden-brown, both on the top and bottom—just one side. This makes it crisp and tasty throughout, and it is the same throughout. With this "one-side-cooking" and the new Kellogg's Biscuit, Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuits are easier to digest.

Mother of 7—Still Young

THE woman who gives her organs the right stimulant need not worry about growing old. Her system doesn't stagnate, her face doesn't age. She has the health and "pep" that come from a lively liver and strong, active bowels.

When you're sluggish and the system needs help, don't take a lot of "patent medicines." There's a famous doctor's prescription for just such cases, and every druggist keeps this standard preparation. It is made from fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. Just ask for Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. Take a little every day or so, until every organ in your body feels the big improvement.

The next time you have a bilious headache, or feel all bound-up, take this delicious syrup instead of the usual cathartic. You'll be rid of all that poisonous waste, and you haven't weakened the bowels. You'll have a better appetite, and feel better in every way. The constant use of cathartics is often the cause of a sallow complexion and lines in the face. And so unnecessary!

Would you like to break yourself of the cathartic habit? At the same time building health and vigor that protects you from frequent sick spells, headaches, and colds? Get a big bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin today. Use often enough to avoid those attacks of constipation. When you feel weak and run-down or a coated tongue or bad breath warns you the bowels need to be stimulated. Give it to children instead of strong laxatives that sap their strength. It isn't expensive.

KENTUCKY MOUNTAIN YOUTH INVENTS "TUBELESS" RADIO
COLUMBUS, Ind., April 8.—Ernest Patrick, mountain boy inventor, from Kentucky, celebrated his twenty-first anniversary Thursday announcing what he claims is the first tubeless radio ever invented.
It is an all-electric, alternating current set. It operates entirely without the familiar vacuum tubes. Among the things claimed for the invention are that it will greatly decrease the cost of radio sets, the cost of operation, and that it virtually will banish static. It also is claimed that each set will give almost lifetime service.
WITHOUT HEART
With nothing resembling a tube, the new set "lives" virtually without a heart, as compared with the standard principle on which radio receivers now depend.
The tubeless radio, according to its inventor, snatches sounds out of the air by means of a new wire hook-up, the technical details of which are withheld. To the uninformed it appears to be merely a bewildering jumble of copper wire.
The tone of the tubeless radio is said to be smoother, mellower, more vibrant, due to the elimination of noises common to tubes.
Unusually sharp tuning also is claimed for the tubeless set. Stationing comes in instantly at the turn of the dial and long distance reception is said to be exceptional.
As now constructed, the set is 18 inches long, 12 inches wide and 6 inches high.
The tubeless radio represents the climax of six long years of experimenting by young Patrick, a typical Kentuckian of the pioneer mountaineer strain. He has done most of his work in the basement of his home. He has not even a completed high school education but his understanding of complex electrical problems has amazed trained scientists.
Patrick experimented in his home-made laboratory for years. One day he flipped a switch and received the thrill of his life when the strange looking tangle of wires suddenly went "talkie."
A group of business men of Chicago and Bedford, Ind., purchased an interest in the invention and financed Patrick's perfection of it.
They retained Dr. Bruce Morgan, noted British physicist, to assist young Patrick in an advisory capacity.
Speaking of the invention, Dr. Morgan said:
"In reducing his theory of radio reception without the use of vacuum or any other type of tube to a practical working basis, Patrick has made what I consider to be the most valuable construction to the radio art since the introduction of radio broadcasting."
"My own experience in operating the set proves that the radical principle Mr. Patrick has evolved will cut the current consumption to about one-half what is required to operate receivers of the conventional kind. Having no tube filament to interfere, programs are brought in instantly; each turn of the dial brings the desired station at its full strength without the slightest delay. The absence of tube noises creates a remarkably smooth, vibrant, mellow and very natural tone depth."
"Extraneous noises and static also reduced to a new low level."

charged with taking a man's life to balance the scales against a woman's honor. They are charged with slaying Joseph Kahahawai.
The jury that will hear the case is a miniature Honolulu, half white men and half men of varied races.
The even balance of the jury may be fraught with great significance. Unconsciously the defense must address itself to the Caucasians on the jury and just as surely the prosecution must plead its case primarily to the remaining six of varied race and color.
If an unanimous decision is reached it will represent the unified idea of both east and west as to justice.
The jury is composed of the following:
John F. Stone, white, private secretary, and prominent in Honolulu business life for many years.
Former secretary to Governor Farrington.

BROTHERHOOD HAS SUMMER PROGRAM
Fourth of July, Circus and Everything Portrayed at Parish House Thursday.
It was summer time last evening at the Lutheran brotherhood when J. R. Noecker, E. E. Wolf and G. J. Lampl led the July, August and September group in an entertaining program. Summer was their subject and it was well portrayed.
The opening chorus by the entire company was "The Good Old Summertime" with variations as the three beauties tried to vamp the judges. "The Barefoot Boy" was given by J. R. Noecker with G. J. Lampl as the subject. A quartet, singing "The First Fly of Summer," was composed of Clydus Young, Karl Herrmann, Marion Sensenbrenner and R. D. Good. Next came a canoe scene by the light of the moon.

A Fourth of July parade was featured by an oration by E. E. Wolf. The Spirit of '76 by H. R. Griffin, George Gerhardt and Shorty Ott was followed by fireworks and the big circus.
The work of Marion Sensenbrenner as the "spieler" was outstanding with H. R. Griffin and Ed. Schreiner portraying the parts of clowns. It was a scream from start to finish.
The schedule included: bill posting, parade, Ted Lewis mimicked by Billy May, Ray Stout as Bill Koch, Hill Billy band by George Eitel and Mr. Martin, Strong Man by R. D. Good, Tableaus of Harvest by G. M. Newton and George Eitel, Labor Day by Monroe Valentine, Emerson Martin and R. D. Good, School days by Charles Fellers, Billy May and John Eitel. Pre-showing of summer styles by C. H. Palm, Shorty Ott and H. R. Griffin. German band, Fulton Cryder, Karl Herrmann, Charles Fellers, J. H. Helwagen, G. M. Newton, Monroe Valentine and Emerson Martin; a Hula dance by Ed. Schreiner and the closing chorus.
While the program was going on J. R. Noecker as the operator of the "Shell game" and George Roof as the popcorn salesman almost stole the show.
Accompaniment at the piano was by C. F. Seitz, violin by L. V. Martin and harmonica by George Eitel.

The next meeting will be "Fall" with J. D. Hummel, Ed. Sensenbrenner and Rev. G. J. Troutman, on April 21.

JOHN ADAMS OF MASSACHUSETTS
THE files were at work. At the proper moment John Adams rose and nominated Colonel George Washington as General and Commander in Chief of the Army of the United Colonies. His selection was made unanimous.
THIS Second Continental Congress convened in Philadelphia in May 1775, in Independence Hall with John Hancock of Massachusetts as president. Again Washington was a delegate, saying little, thinking much. This time the people were not for peace. All efforts toward that end had been given up as lost and other measures were needed.

The yearly report of the treasurer was read by Mrs. Bertha Walker. Other important items were discussed among them the raising of the five percent increase on the pledge which was carried.

The meeting was then turned over to the program's leader, Mrs. Frank Collier. Her subject was "China," which was ably introduced by Mrs. Jennie Steele, who told of the missionaries there and the work they were doing.

An interesting history of Miller Academy was given by Mrs. J. R. Kirkpatrick. This was followed by the Chinese national anthem, sung by Mrs. Fannie Greeno. A dialogue entitled, "An Interview," was given by Miss Nelle McCollister and Mrs. Tillie Seimers. A leaflet, "A Monk's Conversation" was read by Miss Blanche Ryan.

The concluding number was the impressive candle light consecration service led by the Secretary of Stewardship Mrs. Abbie Gusman assisted by Mrs. C. O. Kerns and Mrs. Tillie Seimer.

During the social hour delicious refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by her sister, Mrs. Albright and nieces, Mrs. Fred Woodward and Mrs. Albright.

Mrs. Van Riper, vice president of the club on behalf of the club members presented Mrs. Clark with a lovely gift of farewell and Mrs. Sheeler responded to Mrs. Van Riper's well chosen words with a clever poem written for the occasion.

Games and contests were pleasant diversions for the evening and at its close prizes went to Miss Mary Wilder, Miss Mary Howard, Miss Nelle Anderson, Miss Marie Robertson, Miss Helen Bartholomew and Miss Minnie Palm.

BABY FRETFUL, RESTLESS?

Look to this cause

When your baby fusses, tosses and seems unable to sleep restfully, look for one common cause, doctors say. Constipation. To get rid quickly of the accumulated wastes which cause restlessness and discomfort, give a cleansing dose of Castoria. Castoria, you know, is made specially for children's delicate needs. It is a pure vegetable preparation, contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics. It is so mild and gentle you can give it to a young infant to relieve colic. Yet it is as effective for older children. Castoria's regulative help will bring relaxed comfort and restful sleep to your baby. Keep a bottle on hand. Genuine Castoria always has the name:

ANOTHER CROWD APPLAUDS PLAY

Another large and enthusiastic audience greeted the second performance of The Little Theatre's fourth production of the season, the three act domestic comedy, "I'll Explain Everything," given by a different cast at the high school auditorium Thursday evening.

Sparkled with laughs every minute, once more the clever and funny remarks of Henry Becker and Valentine Scott, the two bankers who attempted so many times to explain everything, kept the audience in an uproar throughout the evening.

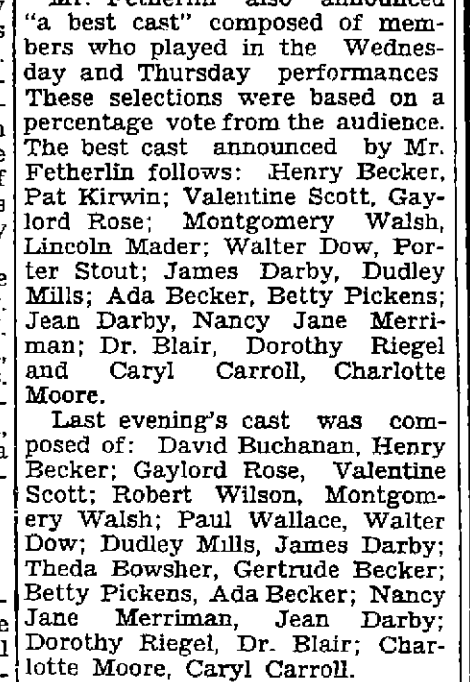

Every character in last evening's performance exemplified with ease the part he or she represented and the play moved smoothly.

The audience voted David Buchanan who took the part of Henry Becker and Gaylord Rose as Valentine Scott the best actors. Each of these boys had the same count of votes.

J. W. Fetherlin, director of The Little Theatre presented the director's pin to John Maxey, business manager of the fourth play and participant and best actor in the past plays which have been given. John Mason has held the pin since the presentation of the third production, "The Yellow Shadow."

Mr. Fetherlin also announced "a best cast" composed of members who played in the Wednesday and Thursday performances. These selections were based on a percentage vote from the audience. The best cast announced by Mr. Fetherlin follows: Henry Becker, Fast Kivins; Valentine Scott, Gaylord Rose; Montgomery Walsh, Lincoln Mader; Walter Dow, Foster Stout; James Darby, Dudley Mills; Ada Becker, Betty Pickens; Jean Darby, Nancy Jane Merriman; Dr. Blair, Dorothy Riegel and Caryl Carroll, Charlotte Moore.

MRS. RENICK PLANS TALE-TELLING CLUB

The National Junior Shakespeare Story Telling club, through the assistance of local teachers, will shortly form a branch or association here, conducted by Mrs. Tom A. Renick.

The club is educational in purpose and is designed to acquaint every grade school child with the works of the famous bard and in such a way that it will appear like a play to them. At the same time, it prepares them for high school English studies while those who are not fortunate enough to advance beyond the grades will have a working knowledge of the classics. Classes will be formed about May 1st.

The plan consists of story hours for the children when groups will meet and tell Shakespeare Stories in simplified form. Clubs for each grade will be formed. Then the grade school champions will contest with those of other schools for the town honors.

Prizes will be offered at various stages of the competitions and diplomas will be awarded each child who has finished the prescribed course.

The grand finale will be a Shakespeare evening or pageant of Shakespearean program having the children portray the Shakespearean characters. Part of the box office receipts will go to charity.

The National Association now reaches into practically every State and has been immensely successful. Aside from the fact that members of the club are improving their education and mastery of English, there is a social feature. Parents and teachers have endorsed the plan with enthusiasm.

For any further information in regard to the Story Telling Clubs phone 1440.
